

GOLDEN WEDDING IN WESTERLY

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Brown Complete Fifty Years of Married Life—Fishing in This Section a Lost Industry, So Says Captain James A. Barber—Tons of Edible Fish Used as Fertilizer.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Brown celebrated their golden wedding at their home in Westerly, in the Pawtuxet valley, on Monday, in which the members of the family and a large number of relatives and friends assisted. In the afternoon, from 2 to 5, a reception was tendered to 300 invited guests. Mr. and Mrs. Brown were assisted by their son, Irving Brown, of Brockton, and their daughter, Mrs. Everett C. Stevens, of Westerly. There were several gifts of articles in gold and silver and a purse of gold coin. Among the guests were relatives from Norwich, Pawtucket, Canochet, Westerly and Coventry.

Mr. Brown was born June 17, 1845, in Griswold, Conn., a son of Seth and Polly Ann Matteson Brown. When quite young he went with his parents to Voluntown, where he engaged in farming while attending school. At the age of 19 he secured employment in the Whitman mills at Spring Lake as a jack sprayer. A few years later he returned to Voluntown, where he conducted a market and grocery store. Shortly before the outbreak of the Civil war he went to Shannock mills. He was married on Aug. 24, 1864, to Sarah Jane, daughter of John and Nancy Kettle Case, the ceremony being performed by Rev. George H. Clark. On the same day Mr. Brown went to Providence and enlisted in the United States navy, serving on the ship Landonia and Wanda. He received honorable discharge at the close of the war and returned to Shannock Mills, leaving soon thereafter with his wife for Voluntown. Several years later they removed to West Greenwich Center, remaining there five years, and went to Westerly, where Mr. Brown opened a grocery and meat store which he conducted up to a few years ago. He was postmaster at Westerly for many years. He is a Mason, a member of the Grand Army of the Republic, United Order of American Mechanics and Postmasters association.

Mrs. Brown was born in Richmond, R. I., July 28, 1847, and when a child removed with her parents to Shannock Mills. After attending school, she was employed as a reel tender up to the time of her marriage. Of ten children born to Mr. and Mrs. Brown, only two survive.

Postoffice Inspector Charles H. Pendleton of Westerly, in charge of the Rhode Island district, has been delegated to investigate the needs of the Providence postoffice for more space during the anticipated holiday rush. Inspector Pendleton made examination on Monday of the old postoffice building and was of opinion that it might be fitted for temporary use and adapted for parcel post purposes.

If the building can be fitted more cheaply than spare quarters can be hired in some other adjacent building, Mr. Pendleton will probably advise its use. If the cost is found to be lower the building will be used until the appropriation asked for to repair and make the building a permanent postal station has been passed.

Capt. James A. Barber, the only resident of Westerly who is on the medal of honor roll of the Civil war, and who has been engaged in fisheries since boyhood, declares that fishing in this section may be classed as a lost industry. His sloop has been in readiness to engage in fishing during the season, but has not yet left her berth.

COLCHESTER

Grange Members Met on Tuesday Evening—Electric Lights Being Installed in Local Residence—Personal.

Miss Gertrude McNear of New London visited in Westerly Tuesday.

Dr. John Aldrich of New York is the guest of James M. Aldrich in Park avenue.

Louis Solomon attended the wedding of his brother John in Worcester Tuesday night.

The condition of William B. Austin, who was taken suddenly sick last Sunday, is somewhat improved.

Miss Amelia Hall of Westerly, Mass., is the guest of her sister, Miss Mary L. Hall, in Lower Pawcatuck.

There was large attendance at the lawn festival given by the ladies of St. Michael's Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Friend of Providence are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel P. Lawton in Main street.

Barney D. Crandall of Rehoboth, N. Y., is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Charles H. Stanton, in Westerly.

Dr. Grace Peckham of Byn Mawr college, Philadelphia, is the guest of Miss Sarah M. Peckham, in Westerly.

Miss Grace Porter Willard has returned from three weeks of camp life within the borders of Rhode Island. Miss Willard is a lover of wood and the team, is expert with rod and gun and a pleasing writer for magazine devoted to out of door life.

Leonard Maine of North Stonington was in Westerly Tuesday afternoon and had in his possession two live snakes of the copperhead type, which he captured at Lantern Hill. The reptiles with the deadly sting were confined in a box with a glass cover and could do no harm while in captivity.

Members of the Connecticut legislature serve in biennial sessions of six months' duration for a salary of $300 and only one round trip mileage, and therefore really pay for the privilege of serving the state. If such law prevailed in Rhode Island, the rule of once a state official always a state official would probably not be a truism.

STAFFORD SPRINGS
Death of Timothy Shea, a Native of Ireland—Other District Happenings.

Timothy Shea, aged 72, died at his home on Church street Monday of illness incident to old age. Mr. Shea came here from Ireland several years ago and has spent most of his life in this town. He is survived by one son, Jeremiah, of Providence, and two daughters, Mrs. Nellie Shea and Miss Mary Shea, both of Stafford Springs. He also leaves several grandchildren.

Wants to Teach at Linwood.
Miss Eleanor Spratt has asked the town school committee to be relieved from her contract to teach in the Crystal Lake school the coming year. She has accepted a school near her home in Linwood, Mass.

Miss Maud G. Booth has entirely recovered from her illness, which made it necessary for her to ask for a leave of absence from her school last term, and will resume teaching in the first grade at the opening of the school year.

Personal Mention.
Miss Alice Ambler of Springfield spent Tuesday in Stafford Springs.
